

How to Play

Pigdorf™

- Any number of players can compete with creative shots while trying to avoid gaining the letters P-I-G.
- The first player attempts a creative shot with the dorf, anywhere and anyhow (be sure to thoroughly explain your shot before each attempt).
- If the player misses the attempt the next player attempts to make a creative shot of their own. This continues until a shot is made.
- If a player successfully completes a shot, all other players must successfully complete the same shot. Players failing to complete the shot receive a letter, the first being P...
- When a player misses a shot that would give them letter G they can "Prove It" by attempting the same shot a second time. If the player proves it, they are still in the game with only two letters. If they miss, they can no longer participate and have just been PIGGED OUT!
- During the game there are no warm up shots, dribbling is ok, but any shot counts as a turn. Players who are not currently shooting can practice.

Example Pigdorf Scoresheet

Name	Score
Larry	P I
MJ	P I G
Magic	P I G

Non-winner sign: Magic MJ

And the winner is.... Larry!! How a score sheet works: Every time a player misses a shot and gets a letter it is that player's responsibility to record the letter on the score sheet. Once a player is pigged out they have to sign the score sheet to verify they are a non-winner. A score sheet can be quickly drawn up on any piece of paper. Remember: There are no losers in baldorf, only non-winners.
